

Table of Contents

Authors	VII
Battle Descriptions as Literary Texts: an Introduction Johanna Luggin and Sebastian Fink	1
Year Names as Source for Military Campaigns in the Third Millennium BC Marcos Such-Gutiérrez	9
Much Ado about Nothing? Battle Descriptions in Ugaritic Texts Pavel Čech	31
Victor without Victory? The Lack of Battle Descriptions in the Achaeamenid Empire Hilmar Klinkott	47
Battle Descriptions in the Hebrew Bible: An Overview with Special Attention to the Book of Joshua Wolfgang Oswald	61
Plataea, 479 BC Kai Ruffing	81

„Eine Schlacht wie keine andere“ – alles nur Literatur, oder was?
Agesilaos II., Xenophon und der „Sieg“ Spartas in der Schlacht bei Koroneia (14. August, 394 v. Chr.), der vielleicht eher doch eine Niederlage war! 99
Oliver Stoll

Parody as a Sign of Generic Consciousness: Battle Descriptions
in the Pseudo-Homeric Batrachomyomachia 143
Martin M. Bauer

The Battle of Gaugamela. A Case Study and Some General
Methodological Considerations 157
Reinhold Bichler

Die „Thermopylenschlacht 2.0“ am Persischen Tor (330 v. Chr.) 191
Christian Mileta

Battle Descriptions in Livy's Ab Urbe Condita 211
Simon Lentzsch

Conversus ad pacem ... (Flor. 2.34.65 = 4.12.65): Battle Descriptions in Florus Reconsidered 237
Sven Günther

The Impact of Violence as Heroization Technique in Basini's Hesperis, Naldi's Volaterrais and Filelfo's Sphortias 247
Dennis Pulina

A Battle of Emperors? Contemporary Poetic and Prose Descriptions of Austerlitz (1805) 269
Johanna Luggin

The Impossibility of Deliberate Action in Tolstoy's Descriptions of Battle in War and Peace 305
Sonja Koroliov

Historical Distance and Literary Re-Presentation.
Ancient Battles in German Classical Studies 317
Magdalena Gronau and Martin Gronau