

Contents

Acknowledgments — IX

Chapter 1

The Art of Democratic Engagement — 1

The Terms of Democratic Engagement — 3

Democracy in Practice — 10

Performance as Democratic Possibility — 14

Chapter 2

Limits of the Literal, Promise of the Performative — 16

Speaking Truth to Power? Risks of the Literal Voice — 17

The Appropriating Gaze: 'I know the other' — 19

The Essentializing Gaze: 'I know the other' — 20

The Conflating Gaze: 'I know the other' — 21

The Promise of Performance — 23

Unsettling Compositions — 26

Chapter 3

Staging Protest: The Role of Anti-Apartheid Theatre in Democratizing South Africa — 30

Protest Theatre in Apartheid South Africa: Historical Background — 30

Polyphony: Holding Difference Together, Holding It Lightly — 34

Polyphony in Anti-Apartheid Theatre: Performing Identity, Challenging Authority — 35

Polyphony: Complex Terms for Coalition — 43

Polyphony and Ephemerality: Slipping Through the Grasp of the Anti-Democratic State — 50

Conclusion — 53

Chapter 4

Staging Deliberation: Forum Theatre as 'Living Laboratory' in Canada — 55

The after homelessness . . . Project — 56

An Artistic Fiction that Tells Certain Truths — 58

Affective Intensity: Moved in Spite of Ourselves — 58

Unsettling Compositions: Immersion in the Vivid Particular — 61

Embodied Inquiry — 67

Revealing ‘Others’ Within the Self —	68
A ‘Dialogue of Action’: Practising Ourselves Differently —	68
Articulating the Noise of Unrecognized Expertise —	71
Aesthetic Mediation: Sometimes the Most Direct Route is Oblique —	74
Plasticity of Time and Space —	77
The Symbolic —	79
The Role of Fiction —	82
Conclusion —	87

Chapter 5

Staging Revision: Clowning Around with Captain Cook in Aotearoa New Zealand — 89

Unsettling Settler Common Sense —	90
Mediating Challenge to and with Captain Cook —	93
The Walking Tour —	96
The Serious Work of Humour —	98
Modelling Acknowledgment —	102
“I want to kill that fella”: Risks of Working Obliquely —	106
Conclusion —	109

Chapter 6

Challenges, Risks and Limits of Politically-Engaged Performance — 111

Internal Challenges —	111
Representation, Decision-Making, and Institutionalization —	112
Affect, Reasoning and Accountability —	113
Polyphony and Managing Meaning-Making —	115
The Politics of Community-Engaged Aesthetics —	117
External Challenges —	123
Dominant Discourses of the Assimilating or Marginalizing Gaze: Arts vs Politics/Engagement vs Spectacle —	124
Dominant Discourse of the Scientific Gaze: The Question of ‘Hard Data’ vs ‘Soft Science’ —	127
Dominant Discourse of the Objectifying Gaze: Static Identity Politics in Arts Policy —	133
Conclusion —	136

Conclusion

Embodying a Democratic Ethos: Future Directions for Performance-as-Democratic Politics — 137

Implications for Democratic Theory — 148

Ethics vs Aesthetics; Aesthetics as Ethics — 152

Artists as Civic Actors — 154

Bibliography — 161

Index – Staging Democracy — 175