

Editorial	287
-----------	-----

Aufsätze | Articles

Aurelia Ohlendorf/Max Trecker Introduction	289
Max Trecker Risks and Opportunities: How East German Economists Reflected on Decolonization in the 1950s and 1960s	301
Karina Khasnulina City of Red Tractors: Soviet Models and the Transfer of Agricultural Technology in Luoyang	317
Aurelia Ohlendorf Tabqa: The Sister of the Aswan High Dam in Syria. How the Soviet Union Tried to Gain a Monopoly in Hydraulic Infrastructures in the Middle East	339
Seung Hwan Ryu Between Second and Third World: North Korean Use of “Imagined Affinity” in the Socialist Globalization Project with Regard to Tanzania (1965–1970)	359
Zsombor Bódy Opening Up to the “Third World” or Taking a Detour to the “West”? The Hungarian Presence in Algeria from the 1960s to the 1980s	377
Dora Tot Long-term Investment or Short-term Profit? The Divergence of Views on Technical Assistance to Algeria Between the Yugoslav Authorities and Self-managing Enterprises	400

Jakob Marcks

Self-help Architecture in the Global Cold War: East German Panel
Technology for the ANC, 1982–1992

421

Autorinnen und Autoren | Authors

440