

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	vi
ABBREVIATIONS	vii
Part I Introduction to the Translation
Courtney D. Fugate, in collaboration with Curtis Sommerlatte
Introduction	3
Part II The Translations
1 Thoughts on the Influence of the Climate on the Manner of Human Thought (1759) Translated by Courtney D. Fugate	39
2 Thoughts on Some Reasons Why There Are So Few Settled Truths in Metaphysics (1760) Translated by Scott Stapleford	47
3 Letter to ... on the Question: Whether the Difference in the Cognitive Abilities and Inclinations of Human Beings Has Its Ground in an Innate Difference or in External Circumstances (1761) Translated by Curtis Sommerlatte	83
4 On the Difference of Human Beings with Respect to Their Chief Inclinations (1762–3) Translated by Curtis Sommerlatte	93
5 On the Principles and Benefit of Etymology (1765) Translated by Courtney D. Fugate	109
6 On the Various Benefits of the Domains of Human Knowledge (1765) Translated by Courtney D. Fugate	131
7 On the Origin of the Desire for Honor (1766) Translated by Courtney D. Fugate	139
8 On the Origin of Languages and Writing (1772) Translated by Courtney D. Fugate	153
9 On the General Speculative Philosophy (1775) Translated by Courtney D. Fugate	195
Part III Ancillary Materials
GLOSSARIES	245
BIBLIOGRAPHY	263
INDEX	293