

Contents

Acknowledgments — V

A Note on Sources — IX

Introduction — 1

Gems and Paradise in Our Time: An Undiminished Popularity — 8

Chapter 1

Apocalyptic Solidarity and Worthless Gems in Benedeit's Voyage of St. Brendan the Abbot — 11

The Many Meanings of Gems: Lapidary Texts and the Earthly Paradise — 12

Hospitality in Motion: Pedagogies of Giving and Receiving on the Road to Paradise — 18

Gyrovagues on the High Seas: Travel and the Rule of St. Benedict — 20

Fathers, Stones, and Gates: Matthew 7 between the Lines — 23

St. John's Apocalypse: The New Jerusalem as the Image of the Good City — 27

The Aesthetics of the New Jerusalem in Visual Context — 30

Allegorized Gems: Precious Stones in Biblical Exegesis — 33

Brendan the Refugee? — 41

Chapter 2

Holy and Human Self-Reflexivity in the Espurgatoire Saint Patriz of Marie de France — 43

Holy Clarté: Sensual and Spiritual Pleasure at the Gate and Beyond — 45

Light Therapy: Clarté, Healing, and Self-Reflexivity — 49

Enjoyment: Reflexive Grammar among the Monks of Paradise — 51

The Apocalyptic Aesthetics of William of St. Thierry: The Beauty and Community of the Holy Spirit — 52

Dantean Self-Reflexivity: Interventions from William Franke — 60

The Spirit's First Coming: Pentecostal Fire and Human Solidarity — 64

Conclusion — 70

Chapter 3

The Earthly Paradise That Never Was: Standing before the Walls of a Dream in the Roman de la Rose of Guillaume de Lorris — 71

The Walls of the Garden in Lorris's Rose: Similarity and Semblance — 71

Aesthetic Discontinuity: Insides and Outsides in Conflict — 75

The Consequences of Incongruity (I): Self-Enclosure in Lorris's Rose — 77

VIII — Contents

Consequences of Incongruity (II): Self-Reflexivity without an Opening —	80
The Apocalypse That Never Was: Lorris's Self-Absorbed Lover —	85
Conclusion —	88

Conclusion — 91

The Suffering Body of Judas Iscariot: Unexpected Revelations and Revolutions on the High Seas —	94
Aesthetics Revisited: Gemstones and Attention —	104
Coda—Whither the Earthly Paradise? —	110

Works Cited — 113

Index — 119