

1 Introduction	1
1.1 Refugee Camps, Refugees' Agency and their Socio-Spatial Interplay	3
1.1.1 Refugee Camp	3
1.1.2 Refugees' Agency	6
1.1.3 ... and the Socio-Spatial Interplay	8
1.2 A Socio-Spatial Approach to Refugee Camps: Research Question, Background and Approach	10
1.2.1 Research Aim and Questions	10
1.2.2 Theoretical Background and Approach	13
1.3 A Brief Introduction of Kyka II	15
1.4 Outline of the Book	17
2 Theorizing Socio-Spatial Practices	21
2.1 Identifying Spatial Structures in a Refugee Camp	23
2.2 Practices of Spatialization	28
2.2.1 The Relations of People as Social Fabric	31
2.2.1.1 Linking People with Social Interaction	32
2.2.1.2 Arranging People by Placing and Positioning	35
2.2.1.3 Navigating through Social Clustering	37
2.2.2 The Relations between People and Material Elements as Material Fabric	39
2.2.2.1 Material Elements and their Meanings	40
2.2.2.2 Consumption, Use and (Re)Production	41
2.2.2.3 Selection of Material Elements	43

2.3	Making Sense of Difference, Fragmentation and Change	45
2.3.1	Space Hierarchies	47
2.3.2	Competition between Spaces	50
2.3.3	Possible Transformation of Space	51
2.4	Interim Conclusion	53
3	Research Design	55
3.1	Relations in the Field: Ethical Considerations, Research Team and Self-Positioning	56
3.1.1	Relational Procedures: Ethical Considerations	57
3.1.2	Relationality as Dependency: Research Partners, Assistant and Translators	62
3.1.3	Relational Findings: Limits and Perspectives of my Positioning	66
3.2	Collecting Data	70
3.2.1	Field Research and Single Case Study	70
3.2.2	Multi-Method Approach	73
3.3	Data Analysis	76
3.3.1	Coding with Grounded Theory	78
3.3.2	Situational Analysis and Mapping	80
3.4	Interim Conclusion	83
4	Humanitarian Patterns of the Camp: Order, Spacing and Protraction in Kyaka II	85
4.1	Uganda's Patterns of Encampment	87
4.1.1	The Legal Framework	87
4.1.2	Rural Development and Encampment	89
4.2	Authority, Governing and Positioning in Kyaka II	92
4.2.1	Authority and Governing in and through Refugee Camps	92
4.2.2	Positioning of Refugees via Encampment	98
4.3	Humanitarian Spacing in Kyaka II	103
4.3.1	Placing the Camps 'Elsewhere'	103
4.3.2	Maintaining the 'Elsewhere', also Internally	105
4.4	Protraction and Time in Kyaka II	110
4.4.1	Developments in the Experienced Protractedness	111
4.4.2	Temporal-Spatial Collisions	113
4.5	Interim Conclusion	115

5 Social Fabric: Refugees' Social Practices of Spatialization in Kyaka II	119
5.1 Spaces of Provisioning	121
5.1.1 Positioning: Being a Refugee in Kyaka II	122
5.1.2 Placement: Roles of Neighbourhoods	127
5.1.3 Fragmentation: Roles of Groups	131
5.2 Knowledge Spaces	138
5.2.1 Refugees as Information Channels	139
5.2.1.1 Reliability: Practical Knowledge based on Experience	140
5.2.1.2 Accessibility: Regular Movement facilitating Transmission	143
5.2.1.3 Positioning: Intermediaries facilitating Cooperation	146
5.2.2 Multiple Knowledge Layers in Kyaka II	148
5.2.2.1 Neighbourhood Knowledge	149
5.2.2.2 Hierarchical Collisions	154
5.3 Interim Conclusion	158
6 Material Fabric: Refugees' Material Practices of Spatialization in Kyaka II	161
6.1 Using Places: Topographic Space-Making	163
6.1.1 Using Land: Agricultural Space-Making	164
6.1.2 Road Construction: Exploring Discrepancies in Paths and Meanings	170
6.2 Assembling Spaces: Constructing a House	175
6.2.1 The Humanitarian Patterning of Refugees' House Construction	176
6.2.2 Refugees as Constructors	179
6.2.3 Refugees as Painters	186
6.3 Interim Conclusion	192
7 Pulling the Strings: Refugees' Rearranging Practices in Kyaka II	195
7.1 People's Spacing: Refugees as Being Placed and Actively Placing Themselves	197
7.1.1 Being Placed: Governing the Placement	199
7.1.2 Re-Placing: Challenging the Spatial Governance	204
7.1.3 Multiple Entanglements: Effects of Re-Placing for the Camp's Arrangement	210

7.2	Anchoring: Introducing New Elements	215
7.2.1	Home-Grown Food and Consumption	217
7.2.2	Introducing 'Luxury' Items	223
7.2.3	Introducing Infrastructural Goods	228
7.3	Interim Conclusion	232
8	Conclusion	235
8.1	Refugees' Roles in (Re)Producing the Camp Space: Summary of Findings	237
8.2	Contribution to the Scholarship	245
8.3	Avenues for Further Research	248
8.4	Final Thoughts	250
	Bibliography	253