

1	Ultrasonic Non-destructive Materials Characterization	1
1.1	Interatomic Forces and Elasticity	1
1.2	Elastic Constants	3
1.3	Ultrasonic Waves	4
1.4	Ultrasonic Velocity and Attenuation	7
1.5	Generation and Detection of Ultrasound	9
1.5.1	Piezoelectric Transducers	9
1.5.2	Near-Field and Beam Divergence of Transducers	11
1.5.3	Polarization of Piezoelectric Shear-Wave Transducers	12
1.5.4	Electromagnetic Acoustic Transducers (EMATs)	13
1.5.5	Laser-Generated Ultrasound and Optical Interferometric Detection	14
1.6	Scanning Acoustic Microscopy	16
1.7	Acoustic Impedance	16
1.8	Ultrasonic Velocity in Single Crystals	18
1.9	Ultrasonic Velocity in Polycrystalline Materials	23
1.9.1	Basic Relations	23
1.9.2	Monitoring of Microstructural Damage by Ultrasonic Velocity Measurements	29
1.10	Measurement of Elastic Properties by Dynamic Techniques	32
1.11	Measurement of Stresses using Ultrasonic Velocity	35
1.11.1	Strains and Stress in Materials	35
1.11.2	Third-Order Elastic Constants of Polycrystalline Materials and Sound Velocity	37
1.11.3	Bulk Stresses and Acoustical Birefringence	43
1.11.4	Hydrostatic Pressure	44
1.11.5	Near Surface Stresses and Surface Waves	45
1.11.6	Plate Stress and Shear Horizontal Waves	49
1.11.7	Uniaxial Stresses	50
1.11.8	Biaxial Surface Stresses	51

1.11.9	Sound Velocity, Temperature, and Stresses	52
1.12	Critical Angle Reflectometry	53
1.13	Acoustic Nonlinearity Parameter	54
1.14	Acoustoelastic Constants (AEC)	59
1.15	Texture	61
1.16	Stress and Texture	69
1.16.1	Texture and Birefringence Constant	70
1.16.2	Birefringence Dispersion	70
1.17	Attenuation, Scattering, and Absorption of Ultrasonic Waves	72
1.17.1	Absorption	72
1.17.2	Attenuation Due to Scattering – Basic Concepts	78
1.17.3	Scattering in Single-Phase Polycrystalline Materials	80
1.17.4	Advanced Theories of Ultrasonic Scattering	83
1.17.5	Concepts of Backscattering	88
1.17.6	Grain Size Measurements	95
1.17.7	Detection of Porosity Agglomerations	96
1.17.8	Detection of Inhomogeneities in Polycrystalline Materials by Backscattering	98
1.18	Creep	99
1.19	Fatigue	104
1.20	Embrittlement	106
1.21	Hydrogen Attack	107
1.22	Micro-cracks	109
1.23	Grain Size in Polycrystalline Materials and Yield Strength	110
1.24	Kramers-Kronig (K-K) or Dispersion Relations	112
1.24.1	Theoretical Background	112
1.24.2	Applications of K-K Relations to Ultrasonic Relaxation Phenomena	115
1.24.3	Applications of K-K Relations to Ultrasonic Scattering	116
1.24.4	Applications of K-K Relations to Ultrasonic Absorption	117
1.24.5	Applications of K-K Relations to Ultrasonic Resonance Spectroscopy	118
	References	120
2	Non-destructive Materials Characterization using Ionizing Radiation	135
2.1	NDMC using X-rays	135
2.2	Properties of X- and γ -rays	135
2.2.1	Electromagnetic Spectrum and Energy of X- and γ -rays	136
2.2.2	Sources of X- and γ -rays	137
2.2.3	X-ray Detectors	142
2.2.4	Attenuation of X-rays	144

2.2.5	Diffraction of X-rays	147
2.3	Applications of X-ray Interaction with Matter for NDMC	152
2.3.1	Application of the Photoelectric Effect in X-ray Emission Spectroscopy	152
2.3.2	Principle of X-ray Computed Tomography and Laminography	155
2.3.3	Applications of X-ray Computed Tomography in NDMC	159
2.3.4	Dual-Energy Computed Tomography	162
2.3.5	X-ray Transmission Imaging and Computed Tomography using Synchrotron Radiation for NDMC	163
2.3.6	X-ray Microscopy and its Applications in NDMC	167
2.4	Application of X-ray Diffraction for NDMC	176
2.4.1	Identification of an Unknown Specimen by XRD	176
2.4.2	Quantitative Analysis of Volume Fraction of Constituent Phases by XRD	177
2.4.3	Stress Measurements by XRD	179
2.4.4	The $\sin^2\psi$ Law for Stress Measurements by XRD - Angle Dispersive Measurements	183
2.4.5	Stress Measurements by Two-Dimensional X-ray Diffraction Data	187
2.4.6	Deviations from the Linear Behavior of the $\sin^2\psi$ Law	189
2.4.7	Stress Measurement by XRD - Energy Dispersive Measurements	190
2.4.8	Stress Measurement by XRD in Anisotropic Polycrystalline Materials	192
2.4.9	Applications of X-ray Stress Measurements for NDMC	193
2.4.10	Texture and its Representation	194
2.4.11	Principle of Texture Evaluation by XRD	197
2.4.12	Applications of XRD for Texture Evaluation	201
2.4.13	Line-Widths of X-ray Diffraction Spots	204
2.4.14	Grain Size and Particle Size Measurements by XRD	206
2.4.15	Estimation of Dislocation Density	207
2.4.16	Precipitation of Secondary Phases	208
2.5	NDMC using Neutrons	209
2.5.1	Properties of Neutrons Relevant for NDMC	209
2.5.2	Interaction of Neutrons with Materials Relevant for NDMC	211
2.5.3	Neutron Radiography for NDMC	214
2.5.4	Stress Measurements by Neutron Diffraction	215
2.5.5	Texture Measurements by Neutron Diffraction	220

2.5.6	Materials Degradation Studies by Neutron Diffraction	220
2.6	NDMC using Electrons and Positrons	221
2.6.1	Electron Backscatter Diffraction	221
2.6.2	NDMC by Positron Annihilation Spectroscopy	223
References		228

3 Non-destructive Materials Characterization

	by Electromagnetic Techniques	239
3.1	Basic Concepts of NDMC Based on Electromagnetism	239
3.1.1	Electrical Conductivity	240
3.1.2	Skin Effect	244
3.1.3	Physical Origin of Magnetism in Materials	246
3.1.4	Hysteresis and Domain Walls of Magnetic Materials	253
3.2	NDMC by Eddy Current Techniques	257
3.2.1	Basics of Eddy Current Testing for NDMC	257
3.2.2	Impedance Plane: Influence of Conductivity and Permeability of Materials	262
3.2.3	Quality Assurance of Materials by Eddy Current Techniques	263
3.2.4	Multi-frequency Eddy Current Techniques	266
3.2.5	Hysteresis in Ferromagnetic Materials and Eddy Current Techniques	267
3.2.6	Sorting of Materials by Eddy Current Techniques	268
3.2.7	Quality Monitoring of Composite Materials by Microwave Eddy Current Techniques	271
3.2.8	Sorting of Materials and Waste Management	272
3.3	NDMC by Micromagnetism	274
3.3.1	Basic Ideas of Micromagnetism for NDMC	274
3.3.2	Motion of Bloch Walls and Micromagnetism	275
3.3.3	Material Properties and Magnetic Hysteresis Loop	280
3.3.4	Material Properties and Magnetic Barkhausen Emissions	281
3.3.5	Applications of Micromagnetism for Microstructure and Grain Size Measurements	284
3.3.6	Applications of Micromagnetism for Material Strength Parameter Measurements	286
3.3.7	Applications of Micromagnetism for Hardness and Hardening Depth Measurements	289
3.3.8	Applications of Micromagnetism for Stress Measurements	294
3.3.9	3MA Technique	298
3.3.10	Commercial Instruments	305
References		305

Index	313
--------------------	------------