

Contents

1	Introduction	1
2	Communication and Observation	13
2.1	Communication	13
2.2	Observation	26
2.3	Authenticity	36
2.4	Group Communication	39
3	Group and Identity	53
3.1	Group	53
3.2	Identity	63
3.3	Practical Group Identities	82
3.4	Group Identity and Action	91
3.5	A Social Epistemology of Group Identity	98
3.6	Society and Group Identity Fabrication	105
3.7	Identity-Theoretical Considerations on the Genesis of Order in Groups	111
4	Environments of Identity Fabrication	115
4.1	Technical Environments	120
4.2	Psychic-personal Environments	123
4.3	Discursive Environments	127
4.4	Semiotic-medial Environments	136
4.5	Legal-institutional Environments	144
4.6	Group Environments	149
4.7	Emotional Environments	152
4.8	Spatial Environments	160

5	Fabrication Processes	173
5.1	Pre-communicative and Communicative Processes	173
5.2	The Fabrication of Collective Identities	182
5.3	The Fabrication of Group Identities	213
5.3.1	Narration, Historicity and Change	216
5.3.2	Practice and Objectification	225
5.3.2.1	Rituals	228
5.3.2.2	Commodities	235
5.3.2.3	Humor	236
5.3.3	Mapping the Territory: Elements of Objectified Group Identities	238
5.3.3.1	Boundaries	245
5.3.3.2	Inclusion and Exclusion	247
5.3.3.3	Belonging	249
5.3.4	The Others	250
5.3.5	Dynamics of Group Identity Fabrication	255
6	Conclusion	269
6.1	Summary	269
6.2	Theoretical Advances	276
6.3	Questions Raised and Need for Research	281
6.4	Methodological Reflections	285
	Bibliography	289