

Chapter One: Ideas and Models of Modern Pacifism	1
The Evolution of the Concept of Pacifism in the 19th and 20th Centuries	1
Between Anthropologism, Internationalism, and Irrationalism	9
The New Theorized European Order Between the World Wars	17
Nonviolent Methods Towards the End of the Second Millennium	25
Chapter Two: Bertrand Russell Witness for Peace	35
A Renaissance Intellectual of the 20th Century	35
The Great War as Watershed of His Pacifist Commitment	46
The Debate on the Russian Revolution Beyond the English Channel	57
Between Scientific Psychology and the International Political Scenario	67
British Neutrality and Collective Security in the 1930s	78
Chapter Three: Between Fear and Hope in the Atomic Age	91
The Hypothesis of a Preventive Nuclear Conflict	91
The Futility of War and the Need for a World Government	102
The Disarmament Policy and Beyond	112
From the Committee of 100 to the International War Crimes Tribunal	122
A Pragmatic and Active Pacifism in Various Shades	133
Bibliography	143
Index	205