Contents

1 Introduction 1

2 The Media Landscape in Germany and Switzerland 7
2.1 Contact with English Media Content in Europe 8
2.2 Empirical Evidence 14
2.3 Conclusion 19

3 The Digital Divide 23
3.1 Socio-economic Background and Media-related Extramural English Contacts 24
3.1.1 Socio-economic Background and Media Habitus 24
3.1.2 Empirical Evidence 27
3.1.3 Conclusion 33
3.2 Gender and Media-related Extramural English Contacts 35
3.2.1 Gender Socialization and Media Habitus 36
3.2.2 Empirical Evidence 44
3.2.3 Conclusion 48

4 Theory of Second Language Acquisition 51
4.1 Incidental Language Learning Through Media-related Extramural English Contacts 52
4.2 Empirical Evidence 63
4.2.1 Incidental Language Learning Through Reading 64
4.2.2 Incidental Language Learning through listening 67
4.2.3 Incidental Language Learning Through Watching 71
4.2.4 Incidental Language Learning Through Online Communication 75

Bibliografische Informationen
https://d-nb.info/1294217739

digitalisiert durch DEUTSCHE NATIONAL BIBLIOTHEK

4.2.5 Incidental Language Learning Through Gaming 77
4.3 Incidental Language Learning Through Multi-channel Media Exposure 83
4.4 Conclusion 88

5 Data 95
5.1 Sample and Test Procedures 95
5.2 Language Assessment 97
5.3 Questionnaire 100
5.3.1 Socio-economic Background and Gender 101
5.3.2 Media-related Extramural English Contact 102

6 Results 111
6.1 Forms and Frequency of Media-related Extramural English Contacts Among Adolescents In Germany and Switzerland 111
6.1.1 Frequency of Listening to Music, Radio, and Audiobooks 113
6.1.2 Frequency of Surfing Online 115
6.1.3 Frequency of Watching Movies, Tv Series, and Tv Shows 121
6.1.4 Frequency of Reading Books, Magazines, and Newspapers 124
6.1.5 Frequency of Gaming 125
6.1.6 Reason for Extramural English Contact 129
6.1.7 Patterns of Media-Related Extramural English Contact 134
6.2 Media-related Extramural English Contacts and the Digital Divide 136
6.2.1 Socio-economic Background and Media-related Extramural English Contacts 137
6.2.2 Gender and Media-related Extramural English Contacts 155
6.3 Media-related Extramural English Contacts and Language Competences 162

7 Summary and Discussion 173
7.1 Summary and Discussion of Forms and Frequency of Extramural English Contact 173
7.2 Summary and Discussion of Extramural English Contacts and the Digital Divide 178

7.3 Summary and Discussion of Extramural English Contacts and Language Learning 185
7.4 Further Limitations and Recommendations for Future Research 191
7.5 Pedagogical Implications 194

8 Conclusion 197

References 201