

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	Motivation and Initial Situation	1
1.2	Problem Statement	2
1.3	Aim of Thesis	3
1.4	Thesis Outline	3
2	Process Mining	7
2.1	Introduction	7
2.1.1	Process Mining Market Trend and Providers	9
2.1.2	Discussion of Related Terms	10
2.1.3	Limitations of Data Mining and BPM	14
2.1.4	Positioning Process Mining	15
2.2	Event Data and Event Logs	16
2.2.1	Characteristics and Structure of an Event Log	18
2.3	Process Mining Techniques	21
2.3.1	Process Discovery	22
2.3.2	Conformance Checking	24
2.3.3	Enhancement / Process Re-engineering	25
2.3.4	Operational Support	27
3	Indirect Procurement	31
3.1	Introduction to Procurement	31
3.2	Direct and Indirect Procurement	32
3.2.1	Direct Procurement	32
3.2.2	Indirect Procurement	33
3.3	Direct v/s Indirect procurement	35
3.4	Excellence in Indirect Category Management	35

4 Business Case	39
4.1 Digitalization	39
4.2 Introduction to Business Case	42
4.2.1 A general Business Case Template	43
4.2.2 Advantages of a Conventional Business Case	44
4.2.3 Limitations of Conventional Business Case for it Investments	45
4.3 Business Case Framework for it Investments	46
4.4 Revised Business Case Template for it Investment	51
4.5 Business Case for Process Mining	53
5 Integrated Holistic Concept to Assess Process Mining in Indirect Procurement (Holistic Model)	57
5.1 “As-Is” Indirect Procurement Process Analysis	58
5.2 Technical Feasibility	60
5.2.1 Stepwise Guidance for Technical Feasibility Assessment	65
5.3 Data Quality Assessment	72
5.3.1 DQD for Process Mining	73
5.3.2 Defining the Six Primary DQD	76
5.3.2.1 Completeness	76
5.3.2.2 Uniqueness	76
5.3.2.3 Timeliness	77
5.3.2.4 Validity	77
5.3.2.5 Accuracy/Correctness	78
5.3.2.6 Consistency	78
5.3.3 Data Quality Assessment Levels	79
5.3.3.1 Activity Level	79
5.3.3.2 Timestamps Level	80
5.3.3.3 Meta-attribute Level	81
5.4 Financial Case	84
5.4.1 Financial Measurement Method	84
5.4.2 Cost of Investment	85
5.4.3 Gain on Investment	86
5.4.4 Intangible Benefits	90

Contents	xi
6 Final Remarks	93
6.1 Conclusion	93
6.2 Limitations	96
6.3 Future Work	96
References	97