

List of Abbreviations and Typographical Conventions	13
Introduction	15
1. Inferential communication and procedural meaning	21
1.1. Inference and the search for relevance	22
1.2. Procedural meaning	28
2. Anaphoric and argumentative relations: the role of procedural meaning	33
2.1. Anaphora: pronouns, referential coherence, and accessibility	34
2.2. Argumentative relations and the role of connectives	40
3. A pesar de ello: counter-argumentation and anaphora substitution	49
3.1. The counter-argumentative instruction: denial of expectation	50
3.2. Grammaticalization and anaphoric meaning	54
4. Experiments on counter-argumentative and anaphora relations	61
4.1. The processing of counter-argumentative relations and connectives	62
4.2. The processing of anaphoric pronouns: ello	70

5. Experimental pragmatics	75
5.1. Experimentation on reading processing	76
5.2. Eye tracking: self-paced reading method	79
6. Experiments	89
6.1. Objective	91
6.2. Research Questions	91
6.3. Hypotheses	92
6.4. Experimental design	94
6.4.1. Experiment 1: independent variables and conditions	94
6.4.2. Experiment 2: independent variables and conditions	99
6.4.3. Dependent variables and areas of interest	99
6.4.4. Materials	102
6.5. Participants	104
6.6. Procedure and equipment	104
6.7. Data treatment and statistics	106
7. Results and discussion	111
7.1. Type of relation	112
7.2. Position	116
7.3. Argumentative sufficiency	122
7.4. Extension of the antecedent	126
7.4.1. Type of relation textual condition	127
7.4.2. Position textual condition	135
7.4.3. Argumentative sufficiency textual condition	143
7.5. Complexity of the antecedent	148
Conclusion	157

Appendices	167
Appendix A	167
Appendix B	181
Appendix C	199
Appendix D	201
Models: Experiment 1	201
Models: Experiment 2	229
List of Figures	233
List of Tables	239
Bibliography	241