

Contents

Acknowledgements — IX

List of Abbreviations — XIII

1	Introduction: On Democratic Labor Oppositions in Spain and Poland 1960–1990 — 1
1.1	European Semi-peripheries as Centers of Democratic Protest in the Twentieth Century — 1
1.2	Research Questions, Methodology, and Conceptual Approach of the Study — 8
1.3	Crises and Breakthroughs: Global Labor History, Human Rights History, and Democratic Labor Oppositions — 25
1.4	Brief Overviews: Workers' History in Two Authoritarian Regimes — 43
2	Emerging Oppositions – Citizens Starting to Organize — 59
2.1	Infiltrating Workplaces from Below in the 1960s: Spanish Labor Activists between Global Norms, National Legislation, and Local Struggle — 63
2.2	Fighting the Atomization of Society: Contextualizing Labor Conflicts and Explaining Rights in a Polish Samizdat Magazine for Workers — 129
2.3	Comparison: Workers' Demands Translated into Mere Social Necessities, Democratic Liberties and Human Rights — 182
3	Illiberal Backlashes – State Reactions to Oppositional Dynamics — 201
3.1	Hijacking a Show Trial From Below: The Spanish Labor Opposition and the Proceso 1001 in the Early 1970s — 204
3.2	After the Success of 1980. Re-organizing Polish Protest during Martial Law — 263
3.3	Comparison: Crises as Waiting Rooms for Different Futures — 319
4	Conclusion – Working on Rights under Authoritarian Rule — 332
5	Sources and Bibliography — 341
	Index — 373