

Contents

Acknowledgements.....	VII
Contributors.....	IX
Introduction: Were the Ancients Rational Actors?
A View from a Graeco-Roman Historian
Sven Günther	1
Trouble Brewing in Old Babylonian Mesopotamia
Kathryn Kelley	13
A Rational God? Rationality and Religion in the Ebabbar of Sippar, an Old Babylonian Temple
Thibaud Nicolas	61
Rational Actors and the Ancient Israelite Jubilee Legislation
Christian Canu Højgaard	91
A City Fit for Business: The Justice of Moneymaking in the Republic 's Healthy City
Daniel Silvermintz	111
Adam Smith, Plato, and the Stoics.
The Birth of Modern Economic Rationality and the Classical Heritage
Lothar Willms	137
Hoarding and Rationality in the Ancient Economy
Michael Leese	177
Old Ideals and Adaptations to a New Reality. Columella's De Re Rustica , a Survival Handbook for an Elite?
José Remesal Rodríguez	213
“The gold-possessing market where flags of the old town cast a shadow”. Some Remarks on Maritime Trade, Markets, and Money in the Early Cēra Panegyrics
Roland Ferenczi	231
Are the Moderns Rational? The View from Qin
Jason Hagler	263

Land and Credit in the History of Economic Thought.
Traditional China and Premodern Europe: Dian and “pactum antichriseos”
Bertram Schefold 317

Index of Sources 337