

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
AIDA ROSENDE-PÉREZ AND RUBÉN JARAZO-ÁLVAREZ
1 Introduction	I
AUXILIADORA PÉREZ-VIDES
2 Systemic Crime and Social Disaffection in Benjamin Black's Quirke Series: A Struggle for Difference	II
LOIC WRIGHT
3 Erin's Sons and Decent Daughters: The Biopolitics of Rural Masculinities in Patrick Kavanagh's Tarry Flynn (1948)	29
ASIER ALTUNA-GARCÍA DE SALAZAR
4 Anne Griffin's When All Is Said (2019): A Different Haunting Ageing Masculinity in Irish Fiction	49
AÍDA DÍAZ BILD
5 The Guts (2013): The Quintessence of Roddy Doyle's Art of Fiction	71
AIDA ROSENDE-PÉREZ AND RUBÉN JARAZO-ÁLVAREZ
6 'Girls just wanna have fun': Female Adolescence and Joyful Insurrection in Éilís Ní Dhuibhne's The Dancers Dancing (1999) and Lisa McGee's Derry Girls (2018–)	89
EKATERINA MAVLIKAEVA
7 Girls and Women in Rosaleen McDonagh's Mainstream : Celebrating Difference	113

MARIT MEINHOLD

- 8 Bridging Differences or Burning Bridges: Transforming the Chorus in Irish Versions of Greek Tragedy 131

BELÉN MARTÍN-LUCAS

- 9 Death-worlds and Necropolitics of Abjection in Emma Donoghue's 'Counting the Days' 147

SARA MARTÍN-RUIZ

- 10 From Virtual to Aborted Citizens: Childbirth and Citizenship in the Republic of Ireland 167

PILAR VILLAR-ARGÁIZ

- 11 'New energies' on 'the threshold of an old art': Democratic
Sparkles in Contemporary Irish Poetry 183

MANUELA PALACIOS-GONZÁLEZ AND

MARÍA XESÚS NOGUEIRA-PEREIRA

- 12 The Violent Othering of Women and Animals in Nuala Ní
Dhomhnaill's and Luz Pichel's Poetry 213

HEDWIG SCHWALL

- 13 'Cork is very much male – and so is working class': An Interview with Lisa McInerney 231

- Notes on Contributors 245

- Index 251