

Contents

Simone Guesser, Ani Carla Marchesan, Paulo Medeiros Junior

Introduction — 1

Part I: Wh-Exclamatives

Xavier Villalba

Exclamatives: An overview — 23

Bruno Ferreira de Lima and Aquiles Tescari Neto

On the role of IP-related functional categories in the derivation of wh-exclamatives — 53

Marina Nishimoto Marques, Bruno Ferreira de Lima, Renato Miguel Basso

“What a great paper!”: A semantic analysis of wh-exclamatives with predicates of personal taste — 85

Bruna Karla Pereira

Copular exclamatives and gender agreement — 117

Karina Zendron da Cunha and Izabel Christine Seara

The perception of wh-exclamatives, free small clauses, and wh-questions in Brazilian Portuguese — 143

Part II: Imperatives

Magdalena Kaufmann

Imperative clauses — 173

Josane Moreira de Oliveira

The verbal imperative in Brazilian capitals: An analysis of data from the Linguistic Atlas of Brazil Project — 227

Rerisson Cavalcante and Higor M. Paiva

Past imperatives — 255

Yan Masetto and Dirceu Cleber Conde

Imperative sentences and their subjects — 283

Part III: Wh-questions

Caterina Bonan

A framework for the study of Romance wh-questions, with special reference to Italo-Romance — 315

Ani Carla Marchesan and Morgana Fabiola Cambrussi

Using semantic inferences to distinguish between free relative and embedded questions: An analysis of ambiguous embedded clauses — 359

Brian Gravely and Timothy Gupton

The left-peripheral syntax of Brazilian Portuguese cadê — 387

Elaine Grolla

Aspects of the development of wh-questions in child Brazilian Portuguese — 409

Marina R. A. Augusto and Letícia M. Sicuro Correa

Wh*-questions, intervention effects and beyond: An assessment of Brazilian Portuguese-speaking schoolchildren's linguistic abilities — 441

Subject index — 461