

Contents

Foreword to the first English edition Dr. Alberto Montoya Martín del Campo	9
Foreword to the third Spanish edition Héctor Villanueva	11
Chapter I. Science and Literature	15
1. Literature and Caprice	15
2. Science Without Dogmatism	33
Chapter II .Why the Subject?	47
1. Something About Modern Physics	47
2. A Basic Principle	50
3. What Everybody Understands?	52
4. Leaving Terms Undefined?	57
5. Definitions by Decree	60
6. The Prejudice of Abstraction	67
7. Coup d'état against the Subject?	71
8. Meditationism	86
Chapter III. Subject	89
1. Concept	89
2. Self-Determination	94

3. Being	96
4. Substance	98
5. On the Method	101
6. Time	105
7. Intersubjectivity	117
8. Causality	122
9. Natural Law	129
10. Necessary	134
Chapter IV. Infinite and Distinction	139
1. Pseudoinfinite	140
2. Pseudouniversal	145
3. Infinite and Universal	147
4. Imputations	152
5. Distinction	157
6. Individuality	160
7. The Bottom of the Problem	166
8. Philosophy and Faith	172
Chapter V. Logic and Natural Sciences	181
1. Dialectics	181
2. Logic	197
3. Force	201
4. Explanatory Factors	210
5. Probability	222
6. Life	227
7. Conduct	241
Chapter VI. The Man and the State	247
1. Natural Goodness?	248
2. Happiness?	270
3. Ethicity	284
4. State	306
5. Family, Society, State	325
6. Two Issues about Humans	329
Bibliography	341
Hegel's Works	345
Other	345