

CONTENTS

| | |
|--|-----------|
| Foreword | vii |
| Acknowledgments | xi |
| 1 Points of Departure | 1 |
| 2 Tracking Theory | 13 |
| Trends in Youth Studies | 14 |
| Theorizing Youth in Media Studies | 17 |
| Cultural Pessimism | 20 |
| Cultural Optimism | 21 |
| Connecting Youth Studies, Media Studies, and Globalization | 23 |
| The Postcolonial Approach | 26 |
| 3 Television and Transnational Relevance | 33 |
| Television and Interpellation | 34 |
| Phases of Fieldwork | 35 |
| Place and Performance | 37 |
| Stark Conditions, Activist Choices | 43 |
| Parenting Siblings and Raising Selves | 48 |
| Affluent Lives, Personal Challenges | 49 |

| | |
|---|------------|
| Action and Comic Heroes | 57 |
| Taking the Fall | 64 |
| It's Good to Be Me | 71 |
| Putting It All Together | 74 |
| 4 Subjects of Globalization | 79 |
| The Restless Ground | 83 |
| The Rainbow Nation and Global Culture | 84 |
| Producing Locality | 88 |
| Neighborhood as World | 98 |
| Claims of Authenticity | 102 |
| 5 Youth in a Hot Spot | 107 |
| Slummin' It Millionaire Style | 107 |
| Sticks and Stones | 111 |
| Called to Labor, Called to Consume | 113 |
| Keepers of Capitalist-Patriarchy | 116 |
| Locating the Teens | 120 |
| Doubt and Mistrust | 125 |
| The Disciplined Self | 127 |
| Producing the Body for Labor | 136 |
| Language of Currency | 140 |
| 6 Circles of Life | 143 |
| Surface Representations and Snapshots | 147 |
| Who Were the Respondents? | 151 |
| Problematizing Youth on Television | 159 |
| Youth Suggestions for Quality Television | 162 |
| Hidden Stories | 165 |
| 7 Reflections and Directions | 173 |
| Where We Have Been | 174 |
| The Ethics of Asking | 178 |
| The Continued Relevance of Postcolonial Theory in Globalization | 185 |
| Notes | 195 |
| Bibliography | 199 |