SURGERY OF THE BURN WOUND 1

R. VRABEC: The tactics of necrectomy and grafting at the Prague Burns Centre	3
B. G. MACMILLAN, E. J. LAW and J. P. FIDLER: Excision of acute burns with immediate meshed autografting	6
A. BERGER, G. MEISSEL and H. MILLESI: Early excision of third-degree burned skin areas under bioptical control	10
R. K. J. KOUMANS, P. S. RUSSEL and J. F. BURKE: Survival of severely burned patients with intermediate duration skin transplantation and immunosuppression	14
H. M. BRUCK: Epigard — a new synthetic wound dressing: Comparative clinical studies with porcine xenograft	17
G. D. WINTER: Temporary skin cover	19
A. B. SUTHERLAND: Trial of Epigard in the burned patient	25
J. SAMOHÝL, D. IMŘISOVÁ, S. MARYŠKA, O. SAMOHÝLOVÁ and M. KRÁČMER: Synkryt (Synco-ver) — synthetic graft	27
H. BOHMERT: The use of xenografts as temporary coverage on mesh grafts in extensive burns	32
G. ARTURSON: Changes in evaporative water loss and hypermetabolism in burned patients after application of xenografts	34
R. P. HERMANS: Primary excision of full thickness burns up to 40 P.C. of body surface followed immediately by micro- or meshgrafts	38
Š. ŠIMKO, R. KLEN and J. BABÍK: Clinical experience with chorion-amnion grafts used as biological dressing	40
J. MOSEROVÁ, Z. KONÍČKOVÁ, E. BĚHOUNKOVÁ, R. VRABEC, J. BLÁHA and A. LETTL: Enzymatic debridement of burn necrosis	42
I. PEDIŠIĆ: Experience from five-year use of early surgery in deep burns	44
L. PASHEV and K. TROSHEV: New modification of the Mowlem-Jackson method	47
M. JEŽEK and K. LEIKER: Collagen foam as a biological burn dressing	48

ANAESTHESIOLOGY, RESUSCITATION AND INTENSIVE CARE 51

J. POČTA and R. KÖNIGOVÁ: Principles of burn resuscitation	53
R. E. SPIJKER: Anaesthesia for early excision of extensive full-thickness burns	55
L. KOPECKÁ and M. DRAPKA: Anaesthesia and resuscitation in burned children	58
E. JÍCHOVÁ, D. KŘUPKOVÁ and J. POČTA: Analgesia in the treatment of burns	60
T. SOTORNÍKOVÁ and J. SKÁCEL: Ketalar in premedication of children	63
M. VOJNOV: General anaesthesia in experimental burn shock in piglets	66
K. V. HALL and B. SØRENSEN: Infusion therapy of burns with dextran and Ringer lactate 2 1/2 years' results of a controlled trial	68
F. W. AHNEFELD, R. H. BORST and R. BARDUA: Oral ingestion of an electrolyte solution as shock prophylaxis in burn patients	74
K. M. DURRANI: Modified gelatine and polyvinylpyrrolidone for volume replacement in extensive burns — a comparative study	80

A. BERGER, F. FINSETH, M. MAZUR and J. F. BURKE: Recommendation for a clinical concept based on experimental data for initial treatment of the burn shock	86
Z. JANŽEKOVIČ: Therapeutic role of escharectomies in the period of burn shock	90
J. HAERTWIG: Hyperbaric oxygen therapy in third degree burn wounds — a microangiographic study	94
Š. ŠIMKO, J. BLÁHA and I. JUGENBURG: The value of hyper-pressure — oxygen in the treatment of burn disease	96
D. RANEV, L. MISHEVA and BL. SHINDARSKI: Enteral tube feeding in burned children in the shock and toxicoinfection phase	101
A. A. SHALIMOV, F. P. VOROBIEV, D. E. PEKARSKII and T. G. GRIGOREVA: Criteria, principles and results of the treatment of burn disease	106
SEPTICAEMIA	113
L. PÁVKOVÁ and Z. KONÍČKOVÁ: Contemporary problems of infection in burns	115
T. PELLAR, L. PÁVKOVÁ and R. KÖNIGOVÁ: Contamination of burn wound in Prague Burns Center in 1969–1972	117
L. PÁVKOVÁ, T. PELLAR, R. KÖNIGOVÁ, V. VACEK and R. VRABEC: Bacteriological examination of burn wounds by means of semiquantitative method	120
V. VACEK, R. KÖNIGOVÁ, M. HEJZLAR, T. PELLAR and J. SKŘIVÁNEK: Maximum tolerated doses of gentamicin and the sulfamethoxazoltrimethoprim-gentamicin combination in the therapy of severe infections in burned patients	124
M. THOMSEN: Frequency of septicaemia	130
J. W. ALEXANDER, A. MCCLELLAN, E. S. LENNARD and A. BUNDEALLY: Phagocytic properties of leukocytes in burns	135
J. W. ALEXANDER: Immunotherapy in burns	138
G. LEMPERLE: The role of the reticuloendothelial system in burn infection	141
P. LEGUIT JR.: A study on the appearance of auto-immune phenomena in burn patients and its clinical relevance	145
S. B. DAY, J. EELKEMA, R. A. GOOD and N. K. DAY: Complement and acute burn trauma	150
B. G. MACMILLAN, M. P. MALEY: The epidemiology of burn wound sepsis in an intensive care unit	153
B. G. MACMILLAN: Patterns of burn wound sepsis during the past 30 years	156
S. A. POLISHCHUK: Tables aiding differential diagnosis of burn sepsis	158
V. TOŠOVSKÝ, B. APETAUROVÁ, B. FÍŠER and M. HRUBANTOVÁ: Therapy of burns in children	162
T. MIDTVEDT and O. M. UGLAND: Warm air treatment of burns in the sterair unit	164
Z. KONÍČKOVÁ, J. SEDLÁK, V. MATĚJČEK, J. MORÁVEK and R. VRABEC: Detection of endotoxin in human plasma using Limulus test	169
COMPLICATIONS OF THE BURN ILLNESS	171
D. M. JACKSON: The sick cell syndrome in burns	173
H. WOLF, H. NEUHOF and D. HEY: Acute functional and morphological alterations after scalding with special regard to the lung: an experimental study	176
C. C. M. HOWIE: Respiratory complications in the early post burn period	181
J. PETRÁSEK, R. KÖNIGOVÁ and J. ŠTEFAN: Renal disease in severe burns	184
R. DOLEČEK, M. ZÁVADA, M. ADÁMKOVÁ and K. LEIKEP: Immunoreactive insulin, somatotropin, renin, angiotensin II, ACTH and LH levels in severely burned patients	189
J. NOVAK: Contemporary changes in the clinical presentation of the burn disease	194
J. VAŇÁSEK and J. MAZÁK: Production of the endogenous erythropoietin in burned rats and its influence by anaemisation and testosterone	196

J. CHLUMSKÝ, R. VRABEC, A. CHLUMSKÁ and R. MAREČEK: Icterus in burn illness	201
J. CHLUMSKÝ, R. VRABEC, A. CHLUMSKÁ and R. MAREČEK: Clinical picture of liver damage in burn illness	203
A. CHLUMSKÁ, J. DOBIÁŠ and J. CHLUMSKÝ: Morphological findings in hepatic tissue of burned patients	207
G. GRIGOROV, Y. EMANUILOV, B. TORLAKOVA and A. KRASTEV: Treatment of respiratory insufficiency in burned patients	209
J. KUFNER: The influence of burns on jaw and denture development	214
P. PAVLOVSKÝ and P. POKORNÁ: Psychopathologic phenomena and their treatment in burns .	216
